

FCC Commissioners
The Federal Communications Commission RE: Docket 04-435
445 12th Street, SW
Washington, DC 20554

Dear FCC Commissioners ,

I am writing to voice my concerns about the FCC's proposal to relax the restrictions on the use of cell phones on airplanes in flight.

As a frequent traveller, I spend a great deal of time flying across the country. The cramped and uncomfortable conditions of flying are bad enough already without people talking on their cell phones.

People have a tendency to forget their surroundings when speaking on cell phones and I readily believe a number of obnoxious people will abuse the other travellers with their use. Cell phones will greatly magnify the stress of travelling, and I ask you to consider the victims of cell phone abuse before allowing them on flights.

Finally, the idea that cell phones will increase the security of flights and help fight terrorism is ludicrous. I imagine if there is a real need for them, people will use them, but this is no excuse to allow the common use of cell phones on flights.

Please leave the current rules in effect.

Sincerely,

Brian Mohr
